The principles underlying the said order seem to be :—

(1). The alienation being vacant the alienee is not entitled to possession

(2). The alienee cannot also take advantage of his own wrongful act and yet knock the bottom out of the contract by suing for it.

(3). The charity is of an official importance & justifies its management by Govt not as a trust but the property is public endowment and under it

The petitioner now prays that he may be allowed occupying Govt land pending full assessment. The effect will be that while now we have the produce plus land for purposes of Govt charge we will have only about 3/4 (the difference between full assessment as the Govt if Govt's prayer is granted. As stated above the petitioner of a Devadaya land under 2 days will not have contributed to the increase of the title and will have prepared himself for it -

Not necessarily. There is a third alternative — that the incorrect interpretation has been acted upon or that the correct rule has not been applied. The Sindhuvalli case (X) seems to be different from this one, as in this case the Mutha is said not at all to be in existence, whereas in that it was in a bad condition. In the present (as a fact) case, the Charity altogether fails as the beneficiary has ceased to exist. The general principle of law in such matters is that the property should be utilised for other similar charitable objects. But we must determine after a proper consideration of all consequences, how far we are willing to adopt this principle. Can we rebuild all such village chatras or topes or it may be, petty temples & provide for their maintenance through our Muzrai department?

The proper thing seems to be to adopt a middle way. When such estates are resumed — unless the institution is important and the means very considerable — they should be let out on the ordinary assessment after selling the right of occupancy by auction always. This would give the benefit of the full tenant's right to [illegible] will save the complication of re introducing batayi cultivation, which is likely to lead to abuse, especially in stray & insignificant cases. If independently of Govt effort, the institutions are brought into efficient Condition, we may introduce the rule of always restoring the inam tenure as a matter of course, and of necessary paying the accumulated difference betn Govt & assessment.

The general question how far the general rules of 1877 are capable of universal ~~expln~~ application (& not merely meant for 'inam Settlement') may be considered separately.

I think the question raised in this case is of sufficient importance to be considered in Council.

An order issued by the Chief Commr in October 1879, says that it was decided by the Govt of India that the rules regarding the treatment of alienations of Inam lands of the kind, should continue to be acted upon. In an order issued in 1881, the rules have been declared to be in force. Therefore the resumption of the lands from the aliene in the present case is in accordance with the rules - The only question is how the resumed lands should be dealt with - Since the institution for Petition of Jwalanappa praying that he may be allowed to continue in the possession and enjoyment of certain devadaya inam lands of the Jangam Mutt at Mavinkurki, Korata-gere Sub-Taluk, Tumkur District, ordered to be resumed and kept under attachment in Government Order 3297-9 dated 21st January 1908 paying the full assessment on the lands till such time as Government may be pleased to restore the same to the Inamdar.

Opinion of the Council.

As already decided by Government in Government Order No.3297-9 dated 21st January 1908, the lands, which have been resumed from the alienee, may be kept as Inam lands under attachment. Submitted to His Highness.

These papers relate to a case of alienation of Devadaya inam lands which belonged to the Jangam Mutt at Manuvinakurki in the Koratagere Sub-Taluk, and were sold by the manager of the Mutt to one Jwalanappa in the year 1890, who sold them to two other persons, from whom again the property reverted to Jwalanappa by purchase at a Civil Court sale. The facts of the case are fully explained in Government Order No.3297-9 dated 21st January 1908 which directed that the lands should be resumed from the alinee (as provided in clause B of Rule 2 of the Chief Commissioner's Notification No.266 dated 17th November 1877). As it was reported that the Mutt had ceased to exist it was further directed that the lands should be attached and managed by the Amildar, the question of restoring them to the Mutt being considered when the Mutt was brought into existence.

Papers under discussion.

2. Jwalanappa has now submitted a petition, in which, while admitting the legality of the Government Order, he prays that in consideration of the facts that he has paid a large sum of money for the property and has been in possession of it for 20 years, he may be allowed to remain in possession of the lands during the pleasure of the Government, paying full assessment thereon.

3. The question has been considered in Council, and the Council is of opinion that as already ordered by Government, the lands which have been resumed from the alienee may be kept as Crown lands under attachment and that they may be temporarily leased to Jwalanappa at a reasonable rent slightly in excess of the full assessment, subject to the condition that the lands should be given up unconditionally when the Government wants them for restoration to the Mutt or for any other purpose. This may be approved.
